

Quantum Entanglement

It's A Personal Thing

Blurb

Chastity was certain she only wanted a love life full of fun and sex with no pesky commitments to tie her down. Unfortunately, like most of her plans, this one didn't quite go the way she expected. What she had to work with were things other people might find desirable. She was healthy, moderately pretty with big tits that made most men overlook anything she lacked. She had a Masters degree from a good school and a good job awaiting her after graduation. She seemed to have it all.

Then a twist of fate took away her loving parents, leaving her alone with the responsibilities of her daddy's company, a small fortune, and a house in the suburbs. She also inherited The Manor House. A place she hadn't been to since her childhood. A place shrouded in mystery and holding the keys to a heritage she didn't know was hers, and the promise of a life she could never have dreamed possible.

The Universe it is said, abhors a vacuum, and she also has a somewhat twisted sense of humour. Sometimes she will open a doorway to another realm for you. You may think that you know what you want, but without your even trying, she gives you what you never knew you needed.
