Mad Love

Harlee Prince had a plan. Finish her master's in applied mathematics. Land the perfect engineering job. Prove every sacrifice it took to get here was worth it.

Then a scandal destroys the internship she needs to graduate. Her only option? A last-minute job at a fast-growing Chicago media company. There's just one problem.

The CEO is Augustus James.

The same man she ghosted after one wildly out-of-character night she's been pretending never happened.

August built his empire from nothing. These days people know his name, his brand, and the billion-dollar company he turned hustle into. Control is kind of his thing. Until Harlee Prince walks back into his life.

Now the woman he can't forget is working for him... pretending she doesn't remember him. But the chemistry between them never disappeared. And the more they try to keep things professional...

The harder it becomes to pretend that night meant nothing.
